COTTON MARKETS.

NEW YORK, Feb. 21.—The cotton market opened steady with prices unchanged to 4 points lower, closed very active to-day and generally easier under liquidation of outside account. In the face of some evidence of clique support, cables were decidedly better than expected and were attributed to support from this side. At 1 p.m. trading was still cloudy for the purpose of evening up on outstanding contracts in view of Monday's holiday and a natural disinclination to have open accounts. The market was more or less dominated by manipulation, more or less with European connections bought and sold in small way, while commission houses bought July. The movement of cotton at the close of the month was estimated at 23,000 bales against 21,120 bales sold and 19,833 bales of last year. Wall Street parties appeared to be selling May and July contracts again to-day. There was a little activity in the market, but no account of the morning on the ground that the spot cotton markets of the country and the cotton goods market have not made a satisfactory response to the advance in futures.

Cotton futures opened easy; closed very steady; Opened. Closed.
